Returning to school - Well-Being Day

Dear Parents/Carers

As part of the process of us returning to school staff will be spending time ensuring that any worries that the children have about returning are talked about and discussed so that they feel reassured about school. Staff will also go over the different procedures that we will still have to do within school and any changes to ensure that everyone is safe. These will be done next week as part of the Well-being Zoom sessions. We also feel that to help the process of coming back to school that children and parents have an opportunity to have some time together as part of Well-being before we come back as a whole school.

This will be a Well-being day on Friday 5th March where no work will be set by the teachers but children will have the opportunity to be creative and do some physical exercise as a family. Staff will provide ideas but this will not be assessed. The Key Worker and Vulnerable children will still be in school but will also be taking part in creative and physical activities outside in their bubbles.

After the Prime Minister set out his road map of how we will come out of the Lockdown on Monday 22nd February we have been busy reviewing our risk assessments and procedures within school. We will be reverting back to what we did before Christmas in the Autumn Term where we will have staggered mornings for classes and zonal areas for breaktimes and, lunchtimes so children aren't mixing with different bubbles. This will carry on until we are advised otherwise from the Government or local authority. Below is a reminder of the procedures that are key for us keeping everyone involved with the school safe.

Thank you for your patience and working with us over the last 8 weeks. We will be sending out the risk assessment and final Return Letter on Monday 1st March. We can't wait to see everyone on the 8th March.

Yours sincerely

A Perry.
