

Why you teach it - your purpose of study

At Audlem St. James Primary School, our curriculum is based on the English National Curriculum as we believe that a high-quality education in English will teach pupils to speak and write fluently so that they can communicate their ideas and emotions to others.

At Audlem St James Primary School our aims are:

- To develop children's imagination, inventiveness and critical awareness
- To encourage meaningful writing, across a range of genre e.g. narrative or non-fiction or another genre;
- To develop a sense of ownership and pride in their work and an interest in writing;
- To develop their knowledge and understanding of English grammar and punctuation as an aid to improving their writing;
- To improve the planning, drafting and editing of their written work to make our children competent and confident when writing or reading.
- To provide our pupils with aspirational life opportunities.

INTENT

What you teach - your programme(s) of study

At Audlem St James Primary School we believe that the ability to write with confidence and accuracy is an essential life skill. We aim, wherever possible, to create cross curricular writing opportunities, as we believe that in order for children to see themselves as successful writers they need to be involved in writing for a real purpose and for different audiences. We want our children to be able to write with grammatical accuracy and be able to apply spelling patterns correctly using a neat handwriting style. We aim to expose our children to a wide range of vocabulary so that they are able to decipher new words and then use them when speaking both informally and formally. We also aim for our children to apply all of these English skills to all areas of the curriculum.

We intend that children become fluent in their transcription skills and that these are taught explicitly and regularly. Developing fluency will mean that children can articulate their ideas clearly. We also intend that handwriting becomes fluent, legible and uses a cursive script.

Handwriting: We intend that all children learn to use the Audlem cursive script from Reception to Year 6, and that this is taught explicitly and regularly.

Spelling: We intend that all children can spell the common exception words for their year group and those in previous year groups. We intend that all children can segment to spell the spelling patterns specified within the National Curriculum.

Writing genres: We intend that all children are exposed to a range of genres and purposes to write and become fluent in using the features of each genre. The children will be repeatedly exposed to these genres across the key stages so that they build their knowledge and skills and show progression. Our Pathways scheme aims to link different subjects of the curriculum so that the children are writing within subjects other than English.

Culture and inclusivity: We intend to promote equality in our writing by exposing the children to a range of genres in their reading as a stimulus to writing. We aim that the children read and write about people from other cultures, different genders and with different abilities.

Greater depth: We intend to enable as many children as possible to learn and apply those skills which demonstrate a greater depth command of written English across a range of subjects.

IMPLEMENTATION

How you teach it - your delivery of the above

Writing is an important part of our curriculum and is an integral part of all of our lessons. At Audlem St James Primary School, writing is taught in a range of ways:

Modelled Writing: The teacher talks aloud the thought processes as a writer with the children. They model strategies in front of the children, communicating the strategies being used. Teachers may model writing skills such as punctuation, rehearsal, proof reading, editing, word selection, sentence construction and paragraphing.

Shared Writing: This is a collaborative approach in which the pupils contribute their ideas and thoughts for the teacher to write. The teacher models and teaches specific writing skills and there is the opportunity for discussion to choose the most effective or suitable ideas.

Supported Composition (Conscious Crafting): The children work in pairs to provide the next sentence of the text. This may follow from the modelled or the shared writing process.

Guided Writing: Pupil groups are differentiated and are identified through ongoing assessments. The teacher or other adult works with the group on a carefully selected task appropriate to that group's needs and targets. This will focus on a particular aspect of the writing process rather than writing a complete piece. Misconceptions, gaps in learning and common errors will be addressed through targeted group work. 'Greater depth' writing tasks are designed for those children who display the ability to extend and apply their writing skills to a deeper level.

Independent Writing: Children are given opportunities to apply their understanding of the text type in their own writing. They are encouraged to plan, draft, write, edit and publish their work, applying the skills they have learnt throughout the unit of work on that particular genre.

Spelling and phonics: All classes in EYFS, KS1 follow the Read Write Inc daily phonics programme. Children are divided into small groups appropriate to their needs, and are taught each day at 9.05am for 20 minutes. Y2 and KS2 follow the RWInc Spelling Programme. In upper KS2, spelling also follows the RWI Spelling programme and is taught at the same time, although the class stays together. At the start of the academic year, all teachers carry out a baseline assessment of the spelling patterns which the children have been previously taught.

Lockdowns have caused some regression in the knowledge retention, so the focus at the start of the school year is to assess and revise the common exception words for all previous year groups. Any gaps identified should be quickly remedied in the first term. In KS1 and KS2, the children receive weekly spellings to learn, and these are tested weekly. Children in KS1 and KS2 also have a spelling bookmark which they update each week, and refer to whenever writing across the curriculum. Every class has a phonics spelling chart which is referred to and added to as children recognise further examples of specific phonemes.

Grammar and punctuation: These are revisited and applied within the Pathways scheme, but are also taught explicitly within English lessons. Teachers carry out a baseline writing task drawn from the Pathways scheme, and use this to assess gaps in transcriptional skills, compositional skills, handwriting, spelling, grammar and punctuation. Teachers use the Pathways progression in skills document to help identify starting points for each child, and plan support or interventions to close the gaps.

Handwriting: In EYFS and KS1, handwriting is taught daily using a fully-cursive script from EYFS. Pencil grip is monitored to ensure correct formation. In KS2, handwriting is taught weekly, and once children have mastered the script, then it is only taught remedially. This may mean that some children are given handwriting homework to support the development of their skills.

Whole school events: The school takes part in National Poetry Day, writing competitions and whole-school initiatives such as anti-bullying week which provides opportunities to apply their writing to a real audience and with a real purpose.

Assessment and moderation: Teachers carry out formative assessment within the lesson by working with different groups of children and children, and judging which aspects of writing need working on with individual children, and which indicate a whole-class area of need. This assessment informs planning of next steps. Throughout the unit of learning, the children produce short pieces of writing which enable teachers to assess progress and plan further support or offer stretch and challenge. At the end of a unit of learning, the children complete their 'Writeaway' task which allows opportunities to independently apply the learning. Attainment in this task allows the teachers to identify gaps and next steps which are built into the next unit of learning. To assist with this, teachers use the 'Progression in Skills' document to identify children's starting point within a particular strand and then plan the next steps. To quality assure teacher judgements, teachers in Year 2 and Year attend external training events, which is then integrated into our moderation process within school. Due to lockdowns, moderation across schools has been temporarily suspended, although internal moderation still takes place each term. The English leads also monitor application of our procedures by carrying out regular book scrutinies and pupil voice.

Greater depth: Lessons include the teaching of skills which build over time towards the achievement of greater depth at the end of the key stages. Lockdowns have meant that there are some gaps in writing so teachers are identifying which skills are needed to work towards this attainment. Teachers differentiate lessons so that there is always a task (diving for pearls) which encourages the children to 'go deeper' with their writing.

Culture and inclusivity: Our English curriculum includes books which raise awareness of the achievements of people from different cultures, genders and abilities.

In Reception

Writing is taught through well-organised activities which are either teacher led or child-initiated. The learning environment promotes writing through a range of resources which enable our pupils to practise writing for different purposes and audiences. The pupils also participate in daily phonics sessions following our phonics programme: Read, Write Inc.

In Year 1

In Year 1, pupils follow the Read Write Inc programme which supports the teaching of phonics whilst providing pupils with opportunities to apply their phonics knowledge to their reading and writing. Pupils are taught in ability groups based on their needs.

The pupils write every day, rehearsing out loud what they want to say, before spelling the words using the graphemes and 'tricky' words they know.

They practice handwriting every day: sitting at a table comfortably, they learn correct letter formation and how to join letters speedily and legibly.

Pupil's composition (ideas, vocabulary and grammar) is developed by drawing on their own experiences and talking about the stories they read.

As pupils become secure in their phonic knowledge, pupils are provided with more opportunities to write at length in their English lessons.

Pathways to Write is used throughout school to ensure progression of knowledge and skills and to provide the children with access to good quality texts to read as a starting point for writing.

We follow a Mastery approach to English through the programme 'Pathways to Write.' Units of work are delivered using high quality texts and children in all year groups are given varied opportunities for writing. Skills are built up through repetition within the units, and children apply these skills in the writing activities provided. Many opportunities for widening children's vocabulary are given through the Pathways to Write approach and this builds on the extensive work we do in school to provide our children with a rich and varied vocabulary.

Each unit covers a range of areas in the national curriculum:

- Mastery of vocabulary, grammar and punctuation skills
- Writing a range of genres across a year
- Vocabulary development
- Using a wider range of reading comprehension strategies as a whole class
- Spoken language activities including drama and presentations
- Opportunities for practising previously taught genres
- An extended, independent piece of writing

All Pupils are provided with opportunities to apply and practice their writing skills in other subjects including: Science, History and Geography

Year 2 and Key Stage 2

At Audlem St James Primary School, pupils in Year 2 and Key Stage 2 are explicitly taught the key skills of writing which they then apply to their writing across the curriculum. Writing is taught in blocks which last for 5 to 6 weeks. Pupils write a range of text types across the year groups. Writing is linked to their Pathways to Write Text and Units of Work.

This process follows three stages:

The Gateway (1-2 lessons)

- Begin at the Gateway with a 'hook' session to intrigue and enthuse young writers
- Use objects, people, images or role-play to stimulate questions about the chosen text
- Give pupils the opportunity to predict the text
- Establish the purpose and audience of the writing
- Revisit previous mastery skills and ongoing skills

The Pathway (10 lessons)

- Introduce pupils to three new writing skills from their year group curriculum

- Provide opportunities to practise and apply the skill they have learnt through short and extended writing tasks including character descriptions, poetry, dialogue between characters, fact files or diary entries in role
- Provide opportunities to re-cap and apply previously taught skills
- Challenge greater depth writers through a wider range of tasks e.g. changes to form, viewpoint and audience

Writeaway (4 lessons)

- Section and sequence texts independently or collaboratively
- Create extended pieces of writing over time
- Opportunity to apply mastery skills
- Time for planning, writing, checking, editing, redrafting and publishing
- A fiction or non-fiction outcome will be written (covering a wide range of genres and themes over the year)

At Audlem St James Primary School, we aim, wherever possible, to create cross curricular writing opportunities, as we believe that in order for children to see themselves as successful writers they need to be involved in writing for a purpose and for different audiences.

IMPACT

So what - your evaluations of the above

The impact of curriculum will be that all pupils at Audlem St James Primary School achieve the age appropriate standard at the end of Key Stage 2, but are also enable to:

Write with confidence, clarity and imagination;

Understand and apply their knowledge of phonics, grammar and spelling accurately;

Understand how to write for a range of purposes and audience, in a range of genres (including fiction, non-fiction and poetry), using the appropriate style, structure and features;

Plan, draft, revise and edit their own work, and learn how to self and peer assess against the success criteria;

Develop a technical vocabulary through which to understand and discuss their writing;

Develop their imagination, creativity, expressive language and critical awareness.

Spelling and phonics: Children now see the importance and value that good spelling can bring to their writing. Pupil voice shows that children see that spelling is important, but we are conscious that children do not see this as the only indicator of a good writer. In Year 2 and KS2, children use the RWI Spelling books each day which has brought consistency and progression to the teaching. This then assures us that skills are progressive and will build over time. Teachers have identified gaps in knowledge in the spelling of Year 1 and 2 common exception words and teach these explicitly. Children now becoming more secure in these words.

Grammar and punctuation: Children are becoming more confident with writing grammatically-correct sentences and with using punctuation following lockdowns, and gaps have been identified by teachers. The school has used the catch-up funding to provide an extra teacher one day a week to work with Year 6 to close gaps remaining in basic grammar, handwriting and punctuation. The English leads have introduced book monitoring criteria which monitors four key areas to secure in the first term. These are:

- Children are securing their use of full stops appropriate for their year group, and errors are identified and addressed.
- Children are securing their use of capital letters appropriate for their year group, and errors are identified and addressed.
- Children are securing their spelling of Year 1 and Year 2 common exception words appropriate for their year group and are making progress. KS2 to secure all words.
- Children are provided with regular handwriting practice and are making significant progress.

Handwriting: The Audlem cursive script is being used by most children across the school although some remedial work is needed for specific children. In KS2, some further practice is needed to target those children who are not yet correctly forming or joining their letters.

Whole school events: These events are fostering an enjoyment and purpose for writing and are encouraging those children who reluctant to write. Children are interviewed through pupil voice and all have said that they enjoy writing for these different events and competitions. Children are seeing English as leading to a variety of careers and are building their self-confidence.

Assessment and moderation: The revised book scrutiny criteria is enabling staff to focus on those areas which are key to build on. Book monitoring will begin in late September and revised again after half-term if skills are embedded.

Greater depth: Teachers are beginning to incorporate the greater depths tasks into their planning which is encouraging the children to aim to include more features of a greater depth writer.

Culture and inclusivity: Children enjoy the extensive range of genres they are exposed to, and have a greater appreciation of the diverse range of people who play a part in society and in important events in history.

greater depth writers using Pathways to writing.

English leads to provide further guidance to staff on good quality writing moderation to ensure that staff are fully conversant with the objectives for their year groups and adjust their teaching, if necessary.

English leads to support staff in being able to differentiate between WTS and EXS for their year group so that staff know which skills are key to moving from WTS to EXS.

All CTs to use the Audlem marking guidance to reduce errors in children's writing.

CTs to prioritise editing and proofreading, even after shorter pieces of writing. These are skills which require explicit teaching for pupils to become confident with them. English Leads to share ideas for this with staff during staff meeting in Summer term.

CTs in KS1 to focus on shorter writing tasks rather than extended pieces to allow pupils to focus on sentence structure and spelling.

IDL to be used to target identified children in each class. It is to be used daily for 15 minutes at school and/or at home. Each class teacher will be responsible for liaising with parents and monitoring progress of targeted pupils.

Raise the attainment of children in writing to increase number of children securing ARE and GDS.

Embed the teaching of RWInc Spelling. Monitor through Flick and Fix.
